

Nurzhan Turegeldi

Python junior developer

I'm an aspiring Python developer interested in a career in backend development. I have experience with Django, SQL and other technologies required to build robust web applications. Also, I am familiar with RESTful APIs, databases, and performance optimizations. I am ready to learn and develop in a team of professionals in order to achieve common goals.

Freelance

By this point, I have already become familiar with Django. Started looking at Django-rest-framework. He was excellent at the task at hand. During this period, my friend and I began to take orders. I wrote the API, he wrote the client part. I also deployed projects to pythonanywhere or heroku. Communicated with customers, clarified details and managed for my area of responsibility
